ALSO Adds CYE to Security Platform

Written by Alice Marshall
04 October 2019

The ALSO security platform gets a solution from another provider with the Cybersecurity Intelligence SaaS Platform from CYE-- Hyver, a combination of advanced AI and services delivered by leading security experts.

Available to resellers via the ALSO Cloud Marketplace, the Hyver platform provides customers with improved security posture and automated remediation across the entire organisation. It promises a combo of both learning artificial intelligence and predictive analytics with comprehensive human expert knowledge to provide extensive protection to business infrastructure. It exploits real-life attack scenarios driven by continuous red-team assessments, without disrupting business processes.

"Cybersecurity is becoming more and more important in view of the increasing use of cloud computing, AI and IoT and streaming service," ALSO says. "We have therefore been working with leading security providers for years to develop and build a comprehensive cybersecurity platform to effectively support our resellers and their customers in deploying individual defense measures against cyberattacks."

The CYE security suite is available to ALSO customers from October 2019, together with solutions from providers including Symantec, Kaspersky, Sophos, IBM, Microsoft, Cicso and Fortinet.

Go ALSO Expands its Cybersecurity Platform