"I think there are many service-led opportunities. In some respects, I wonder why a small-medium enterprise, or even a middle-sized enterprise wants to have it's own IT function. Why bother? They're not going to keep up to date with these things."

"They're just basically maintaining things. It's very expensive for them, they can't find the staff half the time, they can't react fast enough... why not give it to someone like us to do something with?"
