Written by Marco Attard
14 July 2017

Nuvias Group, the pan-EMEA distributor and owner of Wick Hill and Zycko, acquires DCB, the value added distributor with a focus on security based in Belgium.

DCB has offices in Belgium (Zaventem) and the Netherlands (Veldhoven), and has over 20 years of experience in the industry. It works with security vendors, including the likes of WatchGuard, Kaspersky lab, Trustwave and Centrify.

“The Benelux region is very important strategically for us and DCB will become the Cyber Security Practice there, alongside our already established Advanced Networking and Unified Communications Practices," Nuvias CEO Paul Eccleston says. "We will be making significant further investments in Benelux in the months ahead, including additional staff.”

Post-acquisition DCB will continue operating from its offices, with managing partners Wim Clinkspoor and Luk de Dobbeleer retaining their leadership positions. It also gets more EMEA security vendors in its portfolio, namely Arbor Networks, Malwarebytes and HID Global.

Go Nuvias Acquires Benelux Distributor DCB