Infosecurity Russia will have more than 70 exhibitors from 10 countries with around 5000 information security professionals in attendance to explore industry innovation.

This year's event is divided in 3 sections - InfoSecurity Russia, StorageExpo and Documatio n .

Presentations include talks on cloud security systems, the shift from analogue to digital CCTVs and trends in the E. European and Russian CCTV markets.

Mentioned are also the shift towards increased data protection systems (especially where personal data is involved) and corporate clients' increased needs for cost effective communication solutions following 2009's downturn.

According to PricewaterhouseCoopers, 64% of Russian companies have not cut their information security funding, and the datacenter market will continue growing.

Go Infosecurity Russia 2010