European Data Centre Association to Launch Soon

Written by Marco Attard
29 March 2012

The European Data Centre Association (EUDCA) is set to oficially launch at the Data Centres 2012 conference as the body providing a "coherent voice" for the European data centre industry.

Formed following a proposal made in September 2011, the EUDCA was created as a professional organisation giving collective strength to European data centre industry.

EUDCA membership currently stands at around 50 companies and individuals, with members including data centre operators Telecity, EBRC, Colt, DCO, Lamda Hellix and Interxion, suppliers Schneider Electric, Jerlaure, Stratégies and Siemens, industry consultants Arup and Migration Solutions and law firm Bird & Bird.

At Data Centres 2012 the association with present its roadmap for the forthcoming year, as well as welcome new members to join.

Go European Data Centre Association