

Talk & Vision Extends Cloud Offering

Written by Bob Snyder
08 May 2012

Talk & Vision expands its cloud strategy by a strategic partnership with Videxio, an international provider of cloud based videoconferencing services.

Since Talk & Vision launched its cloud based Personal Video service for HD video meetings between fixed and mobile video systems in February this year, demand for video from the cloud has risen sharply. Combining Talk & Vision's broad video offering with the scalable architecture of Videxio should enable the companies to quickly meet the growing demand for easily accessible videoconferencing.

Joost Deckers, managing director at Talk & Vision, says: "The large demand for our Personal Video service demonstrates that videoconferencing is no longer confined to boardroom level..."

"Videxio aims to provide a best-in-class video experience from any device or platform", says Tom-Erik Lia, founder of Videxio (and former CTO of Tandberg). "We enable our partners to give their customers access to our scalable, fully automated cloud based service. This service not only includes unlimited access to cloud based video, but also access to the latest innovations."

Go Videxio of Norway

Go Talk and Vision

Talk & Vision Extends Cloud Offering

Written by Bob Snyder

08 May 2012
